COUNTY LGY PLANKS

County LGY porcelain planks are known for their light and elegant appearance, designed to resemble the look of natural light grey limestone. They typically feature a blend of light grey shades with subtle white or lighter grey veining and undertones. This color palette is ideal for creating a bright, spacious, and contemporary feel in any outdoor space, such as patios, pathways, and garden areas.

Key features of County LGY planks often include:

Color: Light grey with subtle variations.

Aesthetic: A modern, clean, and sophisticated look that brightens a space.

Versatility: The neutral, light color complements a wide variety of outdoor elements and design styles.

COUNTY ANTHRACITE PLANKS

County Anthracite Porcelain Planks
In contrast, County Anthracite porcelain planks offer a bold and dramatic aesthetic. Their color is a deep, dark grey, often described as charcoal or anthracite, and they can have lighter grey veining that adds texture and visual interest. These planks are designed to replicate the appearance of dark natural stone, such as black slate or ash black granite. They are a popular choice for creating a striking, polished, and contemporary look.

Key features of County Anthracite planks often include:

Color: Deep, dark grey or charcoal.

Aesthetic: A modern, bold, and sophisticated look that creates a strong visual statement.
